

Fortna – Press Release

Fortna's Team Expands with Seasoned Labor Management Professional

Nashville (May 27, 2008) – Fortna Inc. today announced the expansion of their management team with the appointment of Troy VanWormer as Director, Supply Chain Consulting. Troy brings nearly twenty years of supply chain best practices and operations improvement experience to the position. Troy will support the company's expanded service offerings to meet clients' business goals including improved customer service levels and decreased operating costs.

In his role at Fortna, Troy will lead the Organizational Excellence (OE) Practice and will focus on providing services and solutions that apply industry best practices to labor productivity tracking, engineered standards, training and incentive programs, user adoption and high performance results.

Troy was founder and managing partner of XCD Performance Consulting, an operations improvement consulting firm. Prior to founding XCD, Troy spent seven years as a consultant with Kurt Salmon Associates (KSA) where he was responsible for delivering a wide range of logistics projects for clients in the retail, consumer products and food industries.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Michigan.

About Fortna

Fortna – “Driving Supply Chain Results”

We design, implement and support complete end-to-end solutions for our clients through supply chain consulting, material handling systems implementation and systems selection and implementation.

Our business-goal focused approach balances systems, processes, people and assets to optimize your supply chain and help you improve competitive advantages, achieve cost savings and improve service levels to your clients.

Our integrated services and unmatched supply chain design tools have provided long term and trust-based relationships with clients in a wide range of industries including multi-channel retail, consumer products, electronics, parts distribution and third party logistics. We invite you to visit www.fortna.com.

Contact:

Patti Satterfield, Vice President, Marketing, Fortna Inc.

Phone: 330.808.0010

Email: pattisatterfield@fortna.com